FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Attorney Career Catalysts Announces Launch of National Recruiting, Consulting and Training Firm

Firm Breaks New Ground with Integrated Service Offerings to Legal and Corporate Communities

Haverford, PA, June 27, 2005---The reshaping of the legal industry continued today, with the launch of Attorney Career Catalysts, a professional services firm that offers law firms, corporations, and individual attorneys a unique mix of recruiting, consulting, and training services.

Founder Frank Michael D'Amore, a former partner in the country's largest legal recruiting firm, formed Attorney Career Catalysts to address a key market need:

"I have long felt that recruiting, consulting, and training are synergistic. Law firms, corporations, and individual lawyers also commented that the counseling and advice I imparted in connection with searches went well beyond that of a traditional legal recruiter. They confirmed my belief that a significant opportunity existed for a firm that offered such a range of services and have supported the creation of Attorney Career Catalysts," D'Amore said.

Mr. D'Amore, who also was a partner in a major law firm and served as a General Counsel of private and publicly-traded companies, has an established track record of developing business, recruiting talented lawyers, and building new operations.

Attorney Career Catalysts will recruit lawyers for law firms and corporations. The new firm will emphasize its work with partners and groups, along with leading General Counsel searches. Highlights of the consulting and training operations include development of lawyers' practice and business skills, the training of individual lawyers, recruiting staff, and law firm marketing and business development teams, and direct work with senior management of law firms and corporations.

Attorney Career Catalysts will be based in suburban Philadelphia and will have a national scope. The new firm will build on a broad base of contacts and relationships the Founder has developed during his 20+ year career. This includes a two-year stint as Co-Chair of the Law Department Management Committee for the American Corporate Counsel Association, the country's largest organization for in house lawyers, during which Mr. D'Amore worked with General Counsel around the world.

Mr. D'Amore is a frequent public speaker and writer, and has been cited in publications such as The American Lawyer, The National Law Journal, Corporate Legal Times, and The Legal Intelligencer.

About Attorney Career Catalysts

Attorney Career Catalysts is an innovative firm that offers comprehensive recruiting, consulting, and training services to the legal and corporate communities. The firm's mission is to accelerate the development of individual lawyers and to be a strategic resource for law firms and corporations that seek to grow and improve their delivery of legal services. Relentless work on behalf of clients and candidates, scrupulous protection of confidences, and production of extraordinary results drive our business.
