

RACO Wireless joins TenDigits Partner Program

Partnership provides BlackBerry Reseller capabilities to Microsoft Channel Partners

Blue Ash, OH and Vancouver, BC – June 27, 2005 – RACO Wireless announced today that it has joined the TenDigits Alliance program to provide BlackBerry® reseller capabilities to TenDigits' US channel partners. TenDigits is the developer of the MobileAccess™ for Microsoft® CRM solution for BlackBerry from Research In Motion (RIM) (NASDAQ: RIMM); (TSX: RIM), an application that provides immediate access to customer data to sales and service representatives in the field. By teaming with RACO Wireless and their large US wireless carrier partners, TenDigits Alliance program partners will be able to provide the complete mobile data and voice solution their customers are demanding. TenDigits is the developer of MobileAccess™, a cost-effective wireless CRM solution that provides BlackBerry users in the field immediate access to accurate Microsoft CRM data.

“BlackBerry users know and love the power of push email application that Research In Motion pioneered. Now they are looking for that same kind of ubiquitous access to provide productivity improvements from their other enterprise applications”, said Tom Lehn, Vice-President, RACO Wireless. “RACO Wireless uses the MobileAccess solution internally to improve the efficiency of our own sales force, so we know the power that Microsoft CRM and the BlackBerry handhelds can deliver together. We look forward to delivering that power to other companies across the country.”

As part of its involvement in the TenDigits Alliance Program, RACO Wireless is enlisting other TenDigits partners to become resellers of wireless data solutions, including BlackBerry Enterprise Server™ software and BlackBerry Wireless Handhelds™. “In delivering the BlackBerry reseller and wireless carrier partnership, RACO Wireless is key to our other channel partners,” said Sean Gocher, President of TenDigits Software Inc. “As solution providers, they aim to provide their customers with complete productivity solutions. TenDigits is looking forward to developing similar wireless carrier partnerships in the other markets around the world that we service.”
