ABOUT GORAGE.COM

gorage.com was founded by Lon Ayers, Tom Champlin & Dan Trujillo in April 2003. The website started out as the solution to allow people to shop garage sales online. The idea was to build a website that allowed internet users the ability to "browse" people's garage sales online, then buy an item they liked. This idea is what led to the name "gorage" – go online to view garage sales. The gorage.com website has evolved from the initial concept of just showing online garage sales to the solution for consumers to sell their new or used goods online without commission fees and for longer periods of time.

WHY GORAGE.COM

gorage.com charges sellers for the use of "selling spaces." The number of "selling spaces" a seller chooses is considered their "gorage." gorage.com pricing plans start at $5 for a 10 space gorage and can go up to $600 for an unlimited space gorage based on 30 day periods. This pricing structure allows the online seller the ability to make more money selling their items online because there are no commission fees. For example, an eBay seller could pay as much as $10 to sell a $200 item online, where on gorage.com that same seller has the ability to sell an infinite number of $200 items for as little as $5 for a 30 day period. In addition the gorage.com seller can manage their gorage (edit, remove or replace text information or pictures of items) at any time allowing them to maximize the use of that gorage and the items in it.
