

COMMUNICATION SKILLS--FOR BUSINESS, FOR LIFE!

Janine Driver, Lyin' Tamer™

Janine Driver, Lyin' Tamer, is a seasoned public speaker and body language expert. Her focus? Teaching people to interpret non-verbal communication and turn that knowledge into their organization's strongest asset. Janine uses her wealth of business expertise and training to interactively examine the subtle non-verbal messages we continuously send one another. What's more, her experience as a national stand-up comic brings an added dimension of wit and playfulness to her information-packed presentations on employment and interviewing strategies, business development, and personal performance. Participants learn how to master their professional and personal relationships using cutting-edge NLP coaching, body language, and deception detection techniques.

As an international instructor and executive coach, Janine brings over ten years of law enforcement training, cognitive interviewing, public relations, and business experience to her clients. She is the founder and president of Lyin' Tamer Education, LLC, a communication consulting firm specializing in sales growth and personal development. Janine is the author of How to Have a Date Six Nights a Week and Top Secret Body Language Tips to Master the Interview. She is also a member of the National Speakers Bureau and the National Association of Woman Business Owners.
