

This is a collection of various poems and writings spawned from various events in my life. They possess my observational standpoint on matters that cross the minds of many today. These poems are a direct representation of my views on varying events and situations. Hopefully, they will provoke thought and give way to discussion and a different outlook into the world we live in today.

“As we journey down the path we call life, we acquire words of wisdom along the way. These words are generated by our life’s ups and downs and they serve as a reminder of our triumphs and failures. We must not forget these valuable treasures, our words, for they are the only physical remains of who we are after we have passed on.”

www.PublishAmerica.com

Dullanni Ezekiel Waterman

TRANSLATIONS of the MIND BODY and Soul

6.00 x 9.00

.134

6.00 x 9.00

No color breaks or text within the dotted area