Top Executive Leaders need a great...

Communications Coach

"Six thousand executives gave me a standing ovation at the Million Dollar Round Table convention in Boston, but they never knew how bad a speaker I once was."

"The turning point in my life came years earlier, when I was an accomplished film producer presenting a half-million dollar proposal to investors. A crackling voice and two sweaty palms later, I lost the deal. An insider said, 'Your ideas were good...you just looked nervous.' At that point, my life changed. I taught myself to speak, and then taught others what I learned."

Bert Decker has spent 25 years uncovering the keys to making communication impact. Decker's methods and his company have transformed thousands of leaders' speaking power...and their lives. And for select executives, Bert personally coaches speaking, communication and leadership excellence.

- Coaching that guided a large accounting firm executive to a Chairman promotion.
- Feedback that empowered a reluctant Olympic athlete to generate standing ovations.
- And advice that helped several politicians get elected and thrive.

Join these top executives and leaders who have enhanced their success.
