No-Risk Lawsuit Funding For Worker's Compensation Cases

Lawsuit financing available for plaintiffs with Personal Injury and Workman's Comp cases; Oasis, a lawsuit funding firm, offers much needed financial help

Personal injury and worker's compensation plaintiffs already have legal help - it's financial resources they're after. Luckily, Oasis Legal Finance, a leader in the lawsuit financing arena, has created a funding solution for long-overdue personal injury and workman's compensation plaintiffs in need of money. Without a lawsuit financing cash advance, plaintiffs may have no choice except to settle their personal injury and workman's compensation claim for whatever the insurance company deems fair.

The awful truth about plaintiffs incurring personal injury from worker's compensation (or worker's comp) is that, even if the plaintiff wins, he or she may lose in the long run due to court delays. This is an ugly reality of worker's comp claims. A personal injury plaintiff may have an airtight worker's comp case and a great law firm to represent the claim, but the insurance companies can afford to wait. It's not just the money, either; it's the additional emotional stress incurred by families who are struggling to make ends meet.

Chief Financial Officer, Ralph Shayne, explains that "we are dealing with people's money and their legal problems and we take that trust very seriously. We understand that the waiting period can be agonizing for our clients so we're anxious to fund personal injury and worker's compensation cases as quickly and efficiently as possible."

Thankfully, Oasis offers the breathing room necessary for personal injury plaintiffs to wait for a fair workman's compensation settlement. More importantly, if the Worker's compensation case doesn't settle, the plaintiff is under NO obligation to reimburse or repay Oasis for their lawsuit financing.

With a worker's comp lawsuit funding cash advance from Oasis Legal Finance, personal injury plaintiffs are afforded the advantage and relief from financial pressure. Structured to provide an alternative to traditional loans; i.e. bank loans, credit cards and home equity loan programs, Oasis Legal Finance takes 100% of the risks from the plaintiff by providing cash on a non-recourse basis, meaning if the plaintiff's lawsuit does not settle then the advance does not have to be repaid.

Diana H., a satisfied plaintiff working with Oasis, was awarded $17,000 against her worker's compensation lawsuit. "Oasis handled things in a very expedient manner and with a high level of customer service. They were very receptive towards my situation and their concern and care rendered were admirable. They got money to me right away and I would definitely contact Oasis Legal Finance again and absolutely suggest others use their services."

Oasis Legal Finance has developed a streamlined process to quickly provide lawsuit financing for personal injury and dozens of other types of lawsuits. Within 24 hours of approving an application, funds can be wired directly into the plaintiff's bank account.

A workman's compensation lawsuit cash advance levels the playing field and can buy the attorneys extra time to fight for a fair and often larger settlement. In addition, attorneys welcome larger settlements as that equals a larger contingency fee.
