About Modular Buildings

Modular buildings are factory built structures that comply with the same building codes as traditional construction, suit a vast array of applications, and offer the advantages of speed, portability, financial flexibility, and cost effectiveness. Modular buildings have established a growing niche in the construction marketplace for organizations that need temporary or permanent space.

About the Modular Building Institute (MBI)

The Modular Building Institute, (www.mbinet.org), is a non-profit trade association serving the commercial factory-built buildings industry on an international scale. Their regular members are manufacturers and dealers of commercial modular structures. It is the mission of MBI to grow the modular industry and its capabilities by encouraging innovation, quality, and professionalism through communication, education, and recognition.
