

New Website www.AstroMoving.com offers tips for choosing a Long Island storage company

You're moving to Long Island and your new home isn't ready yet. You have to put all your belongings in storage and you have to pick a storage company in a hurry. What do you do next? Open the Yellow pages and pick the company with the largest ad right? Of course not, you're too smart for that. You're sitting in front of your computer aren't you? So you go ahead and type "Long Island Storage Company" into your search box and hit go. Now what? Start clicking away and look at all those Long Island storage company websites. But how do you choose the best one?

Here are some tips to help you choose a Long Island storage company.

- Don't choose based on price alone. You learned a long time ago that you always get what you pay for.
- Choose a company that does both moving and storage. There's no point in paying one company to store your stuff and another to mover it.
- Stick to moving and storage companies that have a national presence. The big moving companies have better resources and are more reliable. Steer clear of "man with truck" type companies. Who knows where they'll be when it's time to move in.
- Check the Better Business Bureau's moving and storage company listings for past customer complaints.
- Take out sufficient insurance on your goods. Let's face it, stuff happens. Don't' take the risk.
- Ask for references and call to verify them.
- Ask about the security of the storage company's facility. A leaky roof will ruin your stuff.

Sounds like a lot of work doesn't it? There is an easier way.

Visit Astro Moving and Storage Company's new website, www.AstroMoving.com and talk to a moving and storage specialist. Astro Moving and Storage Company, St. James, New York has been serving Long Islanders for over 35 years and they are a premier agent for Allied Van Lines. Now relax, Astro will carry the load.