FOREWORD by Jim Koch

Founder of The Boston Beer Company

I first heard about The Essential Reference of Domestic Brewers and Their Bottled Brands (DBBB)™ when I was introduced to Michael in Boston back in August of 2005.

His passion for creating one nationally recognized beer reference was apparent as he pulled out his hardcover draft of the book's 1st Edition and handed it to me. It reminded me of my own early days, going bar-to-bar in Boston, letting bartenders taste my Samuel Adams Boston Lager®.

As I flipped through the pages and looked at the number of brewers and styles, and thought about how much the American craft brewing landscape changes each year, I think my words of encouragement were something like, "well, this will be quite an undertaking." Looking at the 2nd Edition you can see I was right, it is quite an undertaking, and the timing could not be any better.

To appreciate beer, one needs to experience its wide variety and taste its increasing diversity of flavor. Increasing drinker demand comes from increased education about the styles of beer available and the awareness of where these beers can be found.

The Essential Reference of Domestic Brewers and Their Bottled Brands (DBBB)™ and its on-line companion provides anyone involved in the beer business, or really anyone having a passion for beer, a tool to help expand their appreciation for American brewing and the dedicated US brewers making great beer.

Cheers!

Jim

INTRODUCTION

Our goal in developing this unique resource was to publish an annual reference of all US breweries and their bottled brands. Our vision is to be the industry-recognized resource for information about all domestic beer brands and their producers, and that all stakeholders in the three-tier beer distribution system will embrace and utilize the DBBB, as a means for enabling market demand through education and awareness building.

The Essential Reference of Domestic Brewers and their Bottled Brands™ is the first annually published beer reference to offer brewery and brand listings broken down alphabetically, by beer style, geographic location, and individual brewery portfolios. The Brewery Portfolio section is designed to offer brewers the opportunity to provide a more detailed description of their breweries and their marketed brands. These individual brand portfolios function well as shelf-talkers, and the DBBB itself is a great resource for retailers and consumers to find new beer brands. With the purchase of the DBBB you also receive access to the on-line DBBB database (updated monthly) and the printable Brewery Portfolios.

The DBBB™ and the companion web site indexes and details all domestic beer brewers and their bottled brands for beer retailers, beer wholesalers, convenience stores, supermarkets, and restaurants.

MC Basset, LLC collects, formats, indexes, and distributes this information through the DBBB. Brand information in this resource is provided, edited, and approved by the individual brewing companies or derived from individual brewery web sites. We do not evaluate, rank, rate, or guarantee any of the brands or specifically recommend the breweries listed in the DBBB.

We are not responsible for providing brand information for breweries that have not chosen to participate in this compilation or for those breweries not known to us before this edition went to press. Because brand information was provided by the manufacturer, we cannot accept responsibility for inaccuracies in the information provided directly to us or posted on the brewery web sites. The best source for brand specific information is the brewer.

A lot of time, effort and resources have gone into the creation of this book, we hope it becomes a prized resource.

COLOR AND BITTERNESS COMPARISON CHARTS

Looking at beer styles by their color and range of bitterness provides an easy visual method for discovering new beer styles. There are wide range of beers available in the US market, but seeing the similarities in the appearance and in the flavor between styles can encourage consumers go beyond their current selection of beer or expand the variety of brands they currently enjoy.

BEER STYLE INDEX

This section provides detailed information about the many different styles of beer, followed by a listing of the brewery's brands under their style category. Each brand name includes the name of the breweries indexed in The Essential Reference of Domestic Brewers and Their Bottled Brands (DBBB).

In most cases breweries have selected the style category in which their brands are listed. Note that the Brewers Association recognizes some 35 styles of Ale, 15 styles of Lager, and 9 Special Styles. The D BBB's style categories are not as specialized as those published by the Brewers Association or those utilized in brewing competitions; however they do represent the broad style differences between brands.

The brand listing also includes the page number where the brand appears as a full brewery portfolio listing (Section VI).

STYLE DESCRIPTIONS

ABBEY ALES (DUBBEL, TRIPPEL, SINGEL) Monastic, or abbey, ales are an ancient tradition in Belgium, in much the same manner as wine production was once closely associated with monastic life in ancient France. Currently very few working monasteries brew beer within the order, but many have licensed the production of beers bearing their abbey name to large commercial brewers. These “abbey ales” can vary enormously in specific character, but most are quite strong in alcohol content, ranging from 6 percent alcohol by volume (ABV) to as high as 10 percent. Generally, abbey ales are labeled as either “dubbel” or “trippel,” though this is not a convention that is slavishly adhered to. The former typically denotes a relatively less alcoholic and often darker beer, while the latter can often be lighter or blond in color and have a syrupy, alcoholic mouthfeel that invites sipping, not rapid drinking. The lowest gravity abbey ale in a Belgian brewer’s range is usually referred to as a “singel,” though it is rarely labeled as such.

ALT Put simply, an altbier has the smoothness of a classic lager with the flavors of ale. A more rigorous definition must take history into account. Ale brewing in Germany predates the now predominant lager production. As the lager process spread from Bohemia, some brewers retained the top-fermenting ale process but adopted the cold maturation associated with lager hence the name “old beer” (alt means old in German). Altbier is associated with Dusseldorf, Munster and Hanover. This style of ale is light compared to traditional English ale. In the United States, some amber ales are actually in the alt style.

AMBER ALES Many North American brewers are now producing ales that are identified by the term “Amber Ale.” This is a more modern, non-traditional style, and many of these beers borrow heavily from the characteristics associated with more classical styles such as “Pale Ales” or “Bitters.” Amber ales are light to medium bodied and can be anywhere from light copper to light brown in hue. Flavorwise, they can vary from generic and quaffable to serious craft brewed styles with extravagant hoppy aromas and full malt character. Typically, amber ales are quite malty but not heavily caramelized in flavor. For our purposes, amber ales will also include ales commonly identified as “Red Ales,” and “American Ales.”

AMERICAN PALE ALE These brews are golden to light copper in color with a more subtle overall character and lighter body than typical Pale Ales. English ale fruitiness will probably not be observed. However, the most important qualification is that they are brewed domestically and will have less body, malt and hop character than a pale ale from the same brewery.

BELGIAN-STYLE AMBER ALE This is not a classic style, but nonetheless encapsulates various beers of a similar Belgian theme that does not fit into the more classic mold. Expect amber hued, fruity and moderately strong ales (6 percent ABV) with a yeasty character.

BELGIAN-STYLE BLONDE ALE This is not a classic style of Belgian ale, but covers the more commercially minded Belgian ales that are lighter in color and moderate in body and alcoholic strength. Fruity Belgian yeast character and mild hopping should be expected.

BELGIAN-STYLE GOLDEN ALE Belgian golden ales are pale to golden in color with the lightest possible body for their deceptively alcoholic punch, as much as 9 percent alcohol by volume. Typically, such brews undergo three fermentations, the final one being in the bottle, resulting in fine champagne-like carbonation, and a huge rocky white head when they are poured. Often such beers can be cellared for six months to a year to gain roundness. These beers are probably best served chilled to minimize the alcoholic mouthfeel.

STYLE DESCRIPTIONS

BELGIAN-STYLE RED ALE These are also known as “soured beers,” their defining character classically coming from having been aged for some years in well-used large wooden tuns, to allow bacterial action in the beer and thus impart the sharp “sour” character. Hops do not play much role in the flavor profile of these beers, but whole cherries can be macerated with the young beer to produce a cherry flavored Belgian Red Ale. These styles are almost exclusively linked to one producer in northern Belgium, Rodenbach. These ales are among the most distinctive and refreshing to be found anywhere.

BELGIAN-STYLE STRONG ALE Beers listed in this category will generally pack a considerably alcoholic punch and should be approached much like one would a barleywine. Indeed, some of them could be considered Belgian-style barleywines, such as those from Brasserie Dubuisson. Expect a fruity Belgian yeast character and a degree of sweetness coupled with a viscous mouthfeel.

BIERE DE GARDE Biere de garde is a Flemish and northern French specialty ale generally packaged distinctively in 750-mL bottles with a cork. Historically, the style was brewed as a farmhouse specialty in February and March, to be consumed in the summer months when the warmer weather didn’t permit brewing. Typically produced with a malt accent, this is a strong (often over 6 percent), yet delicate bottle-conditioned beer. These brews tend to be profoundly aromatic and are an excellent companion to hearty foods.

BROWN ALE The precise definition of English Brown Ale would depend on where you are in England. It is nowadays much more closely associated with Northern England, specifically Tadcaster and Newcastle, home to Newcastle Brown Ale. These medium-bodied reddish-brown beers are malt accented with a nutty character, a gentle fruitiness, and low bitterness. Alcohol is moderate, a maximum of 5% ABV. The much less prevalent Southern English style, not seen abroad, is much darker in color, sweeter on the palate, and made in a lighter style. English style brown ales of the former type have become very popular with US brewers, no doubt for the same reason as they took hold in England, namely their great drinkability.

DRY STOUT Dry stout is closely associated with Ireland in general. These brews tend to be rich and dark with a definitive bitter note and a drying palate feel. They are classically paired with oysters, although any Irish Stout drinker will tell you that a pint it is a meal in itself. Draught (draft) Irish Stout is nitrogen-flushed to give it that tell-tale white creamy head. This process is also effected in cans and bottles with a nitrogen “widget”.

DUNKEL/DARK WEIZEN These dark wheat beers derive their character from the use of darker malts in the non-wheat ingredients, so that a richer, darker-colored beer can be achieved, along with fuller malt flavors. Dunkel weizens still display the floral, estery qualities of a pale weizen. Dark weizens can be produced with or without a secondary fermentation in the bottle, with the corollary that these styles can be yeast sedimented or unsedimented depending upon the preference of the brewer.

ESB. Bitter is an English specialty, and very much an English term, generally denoting the standard ale — the “session” beer — in an English brewer’s range. They are characterized by a fruity, light to medium body and an accent on hop aromas more than hop bitters. Colors range from golden to copper. Despite the name they are not particularly bitter. Indeed, British brewed “bitters” will often be less bitter than US craft brewed amber ales. A fuller-bodied bitter is labeled as “Extra Special Bitter” (ESB). These weightier versions of bitter often stand up better to the rigors of travel overseas than the lower gravity standard versions. An important element of faithful bitters are English yeast cultures used in fermentation. These impart a fruity, mild estery character that should be noted in examples of the style. Bitters are now widely emulated in North America, sometimes with domestically grown hops imparting a slightly more assertive character than seen in traditional English bitters.

Anchor Brewing Company

1705 Mariposa Street
 San Francisco, CA 94107-2334
 415-863-8350
www.anchorbrewing.com

Anchor Brewing has played a significant role in San Francisco's rich history. Anchor's seven unique beers – including Anchor Steam® – are all produced in one of the most traditional and handsome breweries in the world. Each brew is virtually handmade from an all-malt mash in our handcrafted copper brewhouse, a veritable museum of the simple, traditional breweries of old.

The rich history of Anchor Brewing can be traced all the way back to the Gold Rush, when German brewer Gottlieb Brekle arrived in San Francisco with his wife Marie and infant son Frederick. Brekle applied for citizenship in 1854, and his brewing and business acumen would soon lead to his ownership of a little San Francisco brewery on Pacific, between Larkin and Hyde, which would one day become known as Anchor.

Anchor Brewery inherited a long tradition of brewing what had come to be known as steam beer, one of the quaint old nicknames for beer brewed along the West Coast under primitive conditions and without ice. Today "steam" is a trademark of Anchor Brewing.

Anchor Brewing remains one of the smallest and most traditional breweries in America. Though its beers – especially Anchor Steam Beer – are known throughout the world, they are all still handmade in its handsome copper brewhouse in San Francisco.

Liberty Ale

A special top-fermenting ale yeast is used during fermentation and is responsible for many of Liberty Ale's subtle flavors and characteristics. Carbonation is produced by an entirely natural process called "bunging," which produces champagne-like bubbles. Dry-hopping (adding fresh hops to the brew during aging), imparts a unique aroma to the ale. It is a process rarely used in this country today.

Atlanta Brewing Company

Atlanta, GA 30309-2811
404-275-6701
www.atlantabrewing.com

Atlanta Brewing Company was founded on the vision of brewing world-class beers in Atlanta. In the summer of 1994, we shipped the first case of Red Brick Ale, reviving an all but forgotten Atlanta brewing tradition. The beer was an instant success. Atlanta could finally lay claim to a locally brewed beer that possessed character, quality and consistency.

Today, Atlanta Brewing Company offers six different world-class beers all brewed and bottled in our authentic brewery in Midtown Atlanta: Red Brick Ale, Peachtree Pale Ale, Red Brick Summer Brew, Red Brick Winter Brew, Laughing Skull Bohemian Pilsner, and Kelly's Light. All of our beers are brewed in the classic traditions of European Brewers. We use no additives or adjuncts, nor do we pasteurize our beers. Even the brewhouse vessels were imported from England.

We feature regularly scheduled brewery tours on Fridays at 5:30 pm, which includes a full tasting session. We have live local music during the tasting and tour EVERY FRIDAY. Parking is available in the brewery lot and just past the brewery in a private lot.

Red Brick Ale

This deep coppery-red ale is brewed with five distinct malts which are blended in proportion to produce an extremely balanced malt character. Red Brick Ale is slightly sweet with a medium body and smooth creamy head. It was the silver medal winner for English Brown Ale in the 1996 World Beer Cup.

BluCreek AltBier

A smooth, well-balanced ale brewed with pure water, malts, hops, and yeast and then cold conditioned in the tradition of a classic German AltBier. The drinkable nature combined with the roasted chocolate and coffee notes present in this style make it a wonderfully warming ale. This Alt-style ale is a highly drinkable yet under-represented beer-style in the US market. It fills the void created by German imports that have suffered due to long transit times and a lack of domestically produced versions. The subtle malt sweetness, distinctive German hops aroma and taste, and the subtle roasted finish make this beer as one of our favorite styles of beer.

Boulevard Brewing Company

 Kansas City, MO 64108

www.boulevard.com

Established in 1989, Boulevard Brewing Company has grown to become the largest specialty brewer in the Midwest. Our mission is simple: to produce fresh, flavorful beers using the finest traditional ingredients and the best of both old and new brewing techniques. We offer four beers year-round: Pale Ale, Unfiltered Wheat Beer, Bully! Porter, and Dry Stout. Watch for our seasonal beers: Irish Ale in the spring, ZÔN in summer, Bob's '47 in the fall, and our winter holiday treat, Nutcracker Ale.

The Boulevard story begins in 1988, when founder John McDonald started construction of the brewery in a turn-of-the-century brick building on Kansas City's historic Southwest Boulevard. A vintage Bavarian brewhouse was installed, and the first batches of beer were produced in the fall of 1989. That November, the first keg of Boulevard Pale Ale was delivered—in the back of John's pickup truck—to a restaurant just a few blocks away.

The popularity of our beers has since spread to eleven Midwestern states. From Hot Springs, Arkansas to Rapid City, South Dakota, Boulevard beers have become favorites, known for their full flavor, distinctive character, and unsurpassed quality.

The Sand Creek Brewing Company was founded in 1999 by Jim Wiesender and Cory Schroeder and was originally built on the Schroeder farm near Downing Wisconsin. With the help of friends and family, they converted a large shed into the brew house, and turned a 32-foot refrigerator semi-trailer into the beer cooler. They scrounged brewery materials from sales around the Midwest, using pudding tanks to make the mash and brew kettles. After 4 years of operation on the farm, a decision was made to expand the fledgling operation

In March of 2004, the Sand Creek Brewing Company teamed up with Todd Krueger, the Brewmaster of the Pioneer Brewing Company of Black River Falls, and purchased the historic building and business. The building is the site where in 1856, Ulrich Oderbolz pioneered Western Wisconsin's first large scale brewery in western Wisconsin. The Oderbolz Brewing Company operated until just prior to Prohibition.

Today, the Sand Creek Brewing Company continues that proud tradition by offering great beers brewed at the same location Ulrich brewed his beer over 148 years ago. Currently the Sand Creek Brewing Company produces over 29 different products on a proprietary and contract level. They specialize in premium craft brewed lagers and ales.

Tours are encouraged to learn of the fascinating history of beer in Black River Falls. Tours are available by appointment. Please give us a call at (715) 284-7553.

St. George Brewing Company

204 Challenger Way
 Hampton, VA 23666

www.stgeorgebrewingco.com

St. George started as a brew on premise in VA Beach in 1996. The beers were getting good reviews, so we started a microbrewery. When the brewhouse from DME arrived so did our Brewmaster, Andy Rathmann. Once St. George Brewing Co. opened its doors in 1999, it went for a little over a year and a fire (Christmas Eve 2000) raged through the building destroying everything except the office paperwork! After the fire came contract brewing, lots of traveling, and even the use of a locally failed brewpub...and never forget the hotdog stand. All that behind us, the new brewery was running March of 2002. Fastforward to 2005 and we have come a long way. We have seven year round beers and our four seasonals. Come 2006, we will be adding a few one runs and some other special projects...be ready!!!

The brewery itself is almost 10,000 sqft, 1200 of that is a cold box. Our brewhouse is a 30-BBL Newlands/DME System. Tours of the brewery are walk-ins during the week and on request on the weekends. There is also a retail shop.

St. George Brewing Co. Golden Ale

Based on an old British recipe but with American hops (centennial and Cascade) resulting in a slightly sweet, malty flavor with a citrusy hop character. It has a thick, creamy head and is golden in color.

Tractor Brewing Company was established in 1999. Mike Campbell, New Mexico's Beer Farmer, has been creating world-class beers since 1989 and has won three medals at the Great American Beer Festival (the highest honors in American brewing) as assistant brewer for Wolf Canyon Brewing. Nick Pecastaing, the Ad Farmer, has been heading up management and marketing since 2003.

The Tractor Brewpub's farm theme is evident even from the outside, where several restored antique tractors are parked on the patio. Continuing inside, over 200 collectable tractor models are mounted on walls. There's a Ferris wheel and even a giant rotating carousel. Our tasting room is covered by a barn-like roof, and is affectionately known as "The Beer Farm."

Taking the utmost in brewery equipment care and ingredient selection, we provide our yeast with a clean, healthy environment in which to work its magic. This ensures that you get a consistently good beer people ask for again and again.

Farmer's Tan – Red Ale

We bottled this beer first for a couple of reasons. It is the most "user friendly," meaning it isn't overly bitter, overly sweet, or overly too much of anything. It's a very easy drinking mild ale. Other craft breweries that started small and are now giant, like Sam Adams and New Belgium (Fat Tire), all started out with a user friendly beer like the Farmer's Tan. It has a nice elegant red/brown glowing color with a roasty, toasty flavor and a slightly sweet caramel-like finish. You can compare it to Killian's Red and Newcastle.

The Tröegs Brothers' Biography

"We aren't concerned with making beer to a particular style, as much as we want to create a quality beer that we like to drink – that's what is really important."

– Chris and John Trogner

These Mechanicsburg natives have been handcrafting world-class beers that combine traditional English brewing techniques with the eclecticism of new American brewing.

Tröegs Brewing Company was established in 1997. Today, the brewery produces seven different beers.

Troegenator Double Bock

Troegenator Double Bock, for periods of fasting without solid foods. Monastic brewers relied on the double bock; a stronger, richer beer to fulfill their basic nutritional needs. Known to them as "liquid bread," a double bock has a strong malt aroma and chewy rich body. In the spirited tradition of naming a double bock in the suffix "ator," we give you Troegenator to provide warmth and richness through the early spring months.

Uinta Brewing was established in 1993 to produce fresh, full-flavored beers for distribution. Named after Utah's highest mountain range, Uinta was the first distributing craft brewed brewery in Salt Lake City.

At the time, no other brewery was concentrating on supplying the demands of Utah's many pubs and restaurants. Our brews quickly gained a strong following.

The requests for bottled beer became louder and more frequent. In 1996, Uinta began to bottle its award-winning beers and quickly grew to become the largest craft brewery in Utah. In 2002, Uinta produced over 14,000 barrels. Cutthroat Pale Ale, Uinta's flagship brand, is now the number one selling craft beer in the state.

Uinta moved into a new facility in 2000. The 26,000 square foot brewery is located in the southwest section of Salt Lake City at 1722 South Fremont Drive (2375 West) and is open for tours and tastings weekdays from 11 am to 7 pm.

“Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checkered with failure, than to take rank with those poor spirits that neither enjoy much nor suffer much because they live in the grey twilight that knows not VICTORY nor defeat”

– Theodore Roosevelt

These words inspired us as we endeavored to open the doors of our brewery and restaurant in 1996. Since then, critics and consumers have said that our beers are mighty things. We feel that they are small ‘victories’ for those who appreciate flavorful beer.

www.wolavers.com

Robert and Morgan Wolaver have combined their passion for exceptional beers with their belief in the benefits of organic farming to create Wolaver's: a superb handcrafted ale brewed with only the finest organic barley and hops, grown by small independent farms.

Back in 1997, the Wolavers formed Panorama Brewing Co. Under this name, they formed partnerships with five breweries to brew their delicious organic beers for distribution throughout the country. Otter Creek Brewing was one of those five breweries.

With the huge growth of the organic market, the Wolavers knew they needed their own brewery. In 2002, they purchased Otter Creek Brewing in Middlebury, Vermont. Otter Creek Brewing continues to brew both the Otter Creek line of beers, and Wolaver's organic ales. The small company was the perfect match for the Wolavers, sharing their philosophy of caring for community and the environment – while brewing great beers!

For those who simply love great beer, Wolaver's is a delicious choice – and know that every purchase supports a healthier environment for us all.
