

Ixio Announces Successful Deployment of WORLDONX Integration with their On-Demand Document Drafting Tool, QShift

Using only an Internet browser and QShift, the revolutionary web based document drafting tool, attorneys can now save documents directly into the WORLDONX document management system

Seattle, WA – July 17, 2006 –

Ixio™ Corporation, a leader in technology and services for the legal profession, announced today the successful integration of QShift and WORLDONX. Users of Ixio's QShift and WORLDONX, World Software Corporation's award winning document manager, can now store completed documents directly into their document management systems. This latest innovation is just one of the many similar integrations that Ixio has been working on in recent months.

"One of the key benefits of the on-demand model is that it requires absolutely no upgrade or software purchases on the users' end", said Craig Kobayashi, Ixio's CEO and Founder. "Successful integration of document drafting with document management is a natural flow for our product and we're extremely excited to be working with WORLDONX to provide our users with this benefit."

In the finalization stages of the document drafting process, users of the QShift application may now simply click a button, giving them the ability to save their completed document directly into WORLDONX - no manual to read, no software to learn, no cost associated with the benefit, simply a small button leading directly into their document management system.

Tom Burke, World Software's President announced, "We are thrilled to be working with Ixio and believe our product is a perfect match for their document drafting tool, QShift. WORLDONX is constantly looking for new and innovative methods to deliver our product and web integration with other leading products is certainly high on our list."

#####

About Ixio Corporation

Ixio Corporation was founded in 2001 to solve serious problems of work product information management in professional services settings including law firms and corporate legal departments. Ixio's flagship product, QShift™, is an applied knowledge management technology using an Internet-based, on-demand computing model. QShift™ uniquely merges knowledge management with document automation. Ixio is privately held and headquartered in Seattle, WA. For more information visit www.ixio.com or call 877.ASK.IXIO (877.275.4946).

About WORLDOX®

Since 1988, World Software Corporation has been in the evolving field of document management, delivering reliable, full-featured, cost-effective, and easy-to-use solutions. Thousands of users in the legal and financial communities rely daily on WORLDOX, World Software's prize-winning document manager to bring order out of chaos and prevent crucial documents from being mishandled, misplaced, or lost on today's large-capacity networks. For more information, please call 800-962-6360, visit the www.worldox.com web site, or e-mail to worldox@worldox.com.

Contact:

Richard Cassell, Vice President, Sales and Marketing
Ixio Corporation
888.ASK.IXIO
richard.cassell@ixio.com

Thomas W. Burke, President
World Software Corporation
800.962.6360
tburke@worldox.com