

AAA CAST STONE, INC.

“Making your home a palatial estate”

Talking with Larry Haveman, President of AAA Cast Stone, you get the impression that he grew up with his destiny “etched in stone”. As a young boy in Michigan, the son of a carpenter, Sunday drives were filled with his Dad proudly pointing out house after house he’d built in the surrounding neighborhoods, instilling in Larry the desire to have a hand in the beautiful buildings of his own neighborhood where he grew up. Holding a contractors license in Michigan, his dream has become a reality here in Florida! His company, AAA Cast Stone, specializes in transforming a home into a palace, providing home owners with custom creative additions that make a unique and personal statement. Graced with magnificent columns, dramatic balustrades, scenic planters and outdoor kitchens, AAA Cast Stone creates homes and patios that offer hours of fun and memorable outdoor dining experiences with friends and family. Pool decks with custom additions of indoor/outdoor fireplaces create an outdoor living space that is as functional as it is esthetic. Whether your home is under construction or in need of sweeping improvements, you should consider how cast stone can take your home from having “lots of potential” to absolutely striking.

“My builder recommended AAA Cast Stone for our project”, says homeowner Karin Hartenbach. “By far, they have exceeded not only their competition, but our personal expectations as well! I have never had installers strive for perfection the way they did. Even the other trades people on the job were in awe of the AAA Cast Stone crew.”

Larry explains, “We fashion beautiful architectural cast stone accents for the interior and exterior of the home and strive to create just what the customer had envisioned by working very closely with them. With the popularity of the Mediterranean style of homes in today’s market, more and more people are incorporating European influences from France and Italy into their overall décor.”

An excellent replacement for cut limestone, travertine or other natural building stones, which would be higher priced, cast stone is hand made from natural materials, simulating cut stone. Special decorative niches that add dimension to rooms; interior and exterior columns available in any of the classic styles, from Corinthian to Ionic, moldings for that sophisticated, upscale finish; attractive door trim; keystones and balustrade systems are just a few of the hundreds of AAA Cast Stone applications being created for home owners. “Just as blueprints for each house can be uniquely different, so are these special cast stone accents,” Haveman continues. “Our CAD designer works up a computerized drawing. We can even do artists renderings based on their ideas. We have an in-house mold shop and everything is done right here.” As Haveman continues he proudly explains that the personalized customer service and meticulous follow through by his dedicated staff from designers to installers are the key to his company’s success. “We are very proud of our crew. Haveman points out that, “we strive for excellence, constantly updating our processes and looking for innovations”.

Whether you’re looking to up-grade your home, build a custom home or are working on a commercial project, AAA Cast Stone provides endless possibilities. “Our manufacturing facility’s central location allows us to service a wide area.”
