AUTHOR OF 'MOVING A NATION TO CARE: POST-TRAUMATIC STRESS DISORDER AND AMERICA'S RETURNING TROOPS' BEGINS MIDWEST BOOK TOUR ON JUNE 12

With stops in St. Louis, Boulder and Denver, author Ilona Meagher continues her grassroots 'Moving a Nation to Care' tour.

"Ilona Meagher is a powerful advocate for American combat veterans of all generations. With mental health issues facing hundreds of thousands of returning Iraq and Afghanistan veterans, Moving a Nation to Care brings desperately needed attention to the devastating hidden costs of war. Anyone who wants to 'support the troops' should read this important book." Paul Rieckhoff, author of Chasing Ghosts and executive director of Iraq and Afghanistan Veterans of America (IAVA)

Beginning the Midwestern leg of her national book tour on June 12, 2007, author Ilona Meagher shares details on and resources for returning troops, military families and the communities that support them.

The Moving a Nation to Care book tour aims to offer more than the typical book signing. "My hope is that this will be a shared discussion and learning experience on both ends," Meagher says. "Rather than my standing at a podium and projecting out to those in attendance, I prefer to think of my stops as lively community gatherings."

The author is inviting both seekers and sages to her events, hoping for an energetic exchange of ideas. Those in the community working directly with veterans and their families (private and VA counselors, nonprofit organizations, activists) are invited to share their resources, tell what successes they are having, and let area members in attendance know what more they need to keep doing their vital work.

"I hope the flow of information moves in all directions," Meagher says.

These valuable resources will be shared with those not able to attend on the Moving a Nation to Care website, a project that will take off this spring and summer at www.movinganationtocare.com. "It's an empty canvass at the moment, but will become a richer resource as we pool our data, share what we know and what we've learned with one another."

"Tackling post-traumatic stress disorder and ensuring a veteran's successful reintegration following combat demand an active, engaged community," Meagher says. "Let's get moving on this together."
