

What people are saying about the book.

“This is a fascinating topic for Catholics and non-Catholics alike, as it helps us all to understand others beliefs and to examine our own beliefs. It is a story that the average person can relate to, and it is a book they will want to keep on their bookshelves to reread”

Bobbie Christmas, Book Editor Zebra Communications Atlanta, GA.

“Thanks for the book. It is an excellent tool and I believe that your application questions make it non-threatening. Thanks for having the courage to write the book and I pray that it helps millions to find real faith in Jesus and through His word. Please send and bill me for twenty copies. We will start a group this fall as the Lord wills.”

Joe Putting, Senior Minister, Tomaka Christian Church

“I read your book last night and could not put it down until I finished it. Everyone must read this!”

Stephanie Bringas, Connections Director Community Christian Church, Florida.

“I want to thank you for sending me your book. I have started reading and so far I am impressed on how easy it is to read and relate to. I am sure I will have plenty of people who will want to read it. I pray you will have much success with this book and open many people’s eyes and hearts to Christ.”

Jan Medlin, Member of Harvester Christian Church, Saint Charles, MO.

“Tim, Thanks for the book. I got it yesterday, and read about halfway through last night. So far, I've learned more about Catholics than I ever knew, it's a brilliant read.”

Carman Talbott, mother and wife Chicago, Ill.

“I thought the questions at the end of each chapter were right on target. They are a helpful resource for small groups and could be used to challenge us all.”

Rev. William D. Watson, Executive Pastor Cross Way Christian Church, New Hampshire.

“Tim, thank God for your book, Growing Up Catholic The Pursuit of Truth. I hope and pray that the Lord will use it to convert many Catholics to Christ.”

Dr. Joe Mizzi, Malta.

“I read your book and I loved it. It seemed that you were describing my own life in many ways. As an old St. X graduate, I can empathies.”

Chuck Mulloy Retired business man Louisville, KY.

What people are saying about the book.

“Thelma, one of our women’s bible study leaders thought the book would be a useful research tool. In many cases she has women in the class who grew up Catholic and often is asked questions that she doesn’t understand. to help her answer those types of questions . I believe God has big plans for your book! I look forward to seeing how God is going to use you and your book, to change the world.”

Nancy May, Volunteer Coordinator Community Christian Church, Plantation FL.

“This is a book that is sorely needed. I have only read the exert – but thank you for writing this book!”

Alicia Jones, Mother of three Louisville, KY.

“I'm so excited to read your book. I'm a church librarian and plan to get it for our library. There are several former Catholics who attend our church, including my husband, and there is a huge need for this resource. I actually read about your book in The Christian Standard, a newsletter that I get online, but is also published. God bless you as you pursue and tell the truth. We need it so bad. Thanks.”

Susan Hogan Church Librarian Springfield, Virginia.

“First of all...the books is great. Enjoyed it very much and I wish I would have had it while pastoring over the years. You did a great job my brother. I have shared it with others and they will be ordering it. I also sent the book to a pastor in Portland, Oregon who is involved in a very large ministerial association.”

Dwayne Lee, President of Global Action International

"The book “Growing Up Catholic The Pursuit of Truth” is outstanding! It’s not just good for people struggling with the Roman Catholic Church; it would be good reading for any evangelical as well. Later I probably will want to order some copies. I have a number of former Catholics in our congregation. This may give us an opportunity to adequately approach others who have serious questions."

Reverend Kenneth Hoole Portland, Oregon.

“I've been meaning to email you for some time now. I wanted to let you know I received the book. Thank you! I've mentioned it to a few friends of mine that are ex-Catholics. I'm in the middle of reading right now and then will pass it on. I'll be honest and let you know although I had no doubt it would be good and informative I didn't think I would stick with it. It wouldn't hold my interest or I wouldn't really learn much. I was wrong.”
