Resco Audio Recorder New Release Introduces New Features

Leading mobile application development updates popular sound recording program with brand new capabilities and an appealing, intuitive interface.

Bratislava, Slovakia (PRWEB) July 5, 2007 — Resco once again proves that there is always room for improvement and is now proud to announce the release of the new Resco Audio Recorder.

The lineup of successful applications from Resco has been growing every year, but that doesn't stop Resco from making great applications even better. That is why they've given Audio Recorder a new design and update the program with many features that make it stand out of the crowd. The Audio Recorder is a must have for all sorts of professionals and general users alike. Whether recording a business meeting, a song you are working on as a musician, interviews as a journalist or a reporter or simply any audio memos, Resco Audio Recorder comes in handy in all sorts of situations. Now it is even easier to use -- just a single tap enables users to record audio tracks straight on to a mobile device.

Resco Audio Recorder has many features that make it a unique recorder. Recording doesn't get any easier – all it takes is a single button. It also supports recording in various formats so that users can choose which format suits their needs the best. The application also includes a powerful file manager, player and a sound editor -- all the tools needed to create a finished recording. The design was specially made so that it won't be hard to navigate through the application so that it makes no difference whether a power user or a beginner.

„I have tested Resco procucts for several years. The new release of Resco's Audio Recorder is impressive in it's ease of use, it's intuitive interface and it's adaptability to a wide range of PocketPC/Windows Mobile instruments. It is a major step ahead of the standard programs which come with the units. If audio quality is important to you, I highly recommend purchasing this program."
