COMPENSATION TRENDS

Executive Compensation

Companies in the survey used a combination of cash and equity to compensate senior managers in all industries and throughout the various financial metric cuts. Companies with larger overall value (as measured by market capitalization and annual revenue) tended to deliver greater compensation through annual cash (base salary and annual incentive) than through company equity.

- Founder Chief Executive Officers own four times as many shares as Non-Founder Chief Executive Officers.
- A majority of the cash compensation for non-founder Chief Executive Officers lies in annual cash incentives rather than base salary.
- The business & financial services industry paid the highest amount of compensation to executives in the form of annual cash. Chief Executive Officers in this industry received a median bonus equal to 2.3 times their base salary.
- Executives in the technology industry had the highest levels of ownership (stock options plus shares owned outright) at the time of IPO.

Equity Compensation

Stock option overhang levels in IPO companies have fallen from the 25% – 30% range in 2000 to near 17% post-IPO over the past two years, suggesting that the tolerance for equity levels delivered to employees is decreasing.

- Companies with a market capitalization of over $150 Million have a third less overhang than companies with a market cap under $25 Million, which suggests smaller companies continue to rely heavily on equity for compensation when cash is tight.
- Companies in the technology industry had the highest overall stock option overhang post-IPO at nearly 20%.
- The communications industry had the lowest overhang level following IPO at 15%.
- Average net annual run-rate (options granted minus cancellations during one year) was slightly over 2% for all companies in the survey, compared to 3% two years ago.

EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

The IPO Executive Compensation Survey presents a thorough analysis of compensation and ownership levels for fifteen (15) executive positions and includes:

- Annual Base Salary and Cash Incentives
- Total Cash Compensation
- Stock Options and Long-Term Equity Incentive Grants
- Stock Options and Shares Owned Outright at IPO
- Stock Option Gain Value at IPO
