FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

North Carolina opinion poll on climate change

Wilmington, NC – 10/19/07 – NCclimate.org releases results of its public opinion poll on climate change policy in North Carolina.

On October 12-15, NCclimate.org conducted an independent survey of North Carolinians' views on global climate change and the state government response. The telephone poll included a random sample of 803 households and carried a margin error of +/- 4 percent. Almost 3 in 4 respondents say they are concerned about climate change and only 1 in 10, of those concerned, feel the state government is doing enough to address the issue.

Survey questions:

Are you concerned about global climate change and any of its environmental impacts on North Carolina?

- | | |
|-----------------------|------------|
| a) Somewhat Concerned | 28 percent |
| b) Strongly Concerned | 44 percent |
| c) Not Concerned | 23 percent |
| d) Unsure | 5 percent |

Do you believe our state government in Raleigh is doing enough to address the issue?

- | | |
|-----------|------------|
| a) No | 61 percent |
| b) Yes | 11 percent |
| c) Unsure | 28 percent |

No significant difference was found among groups of self-described Republicans, Democrats and unaffiliated.

NCclimate.org is an independent advocacy organization promoting a free-market approach to climate change policy in North Carolina.
