

GotWebHost.com The First Global SEO Web Host

Got Web Host goes global. The first SEO web hosting company to offer dedicated ip's in datacenters in the United States, Canada and Europe. GotWebHost.com the leader in SEO hosting is now the first global seo web host.

Valparaiso, IN (PRWEB) November 29, 2007 -- Got Web Host, the original SEO web host, is proud and happy to announce that they are now capable of providing multiple dedicated Class C IP ranges globally.

Lloyd Brown, Director of Business Development, announced late last month to their current clients that multiple Class C IP ranges had been obtained in both Canada and the Netherlands.

"We have been attempting to obtain European IP's spread out over multiple Class C's for quite some time, and have finally succeeded," Brown stated. "I went to Europe with the specific intent of setting up a relationship with a datacenter there, and my mission was accomplished. We now have six (6) Class C ranges available in Amsterdam."

Director of Marketing & Support, Tanya Martin, added, "It can be important to have IP's that are local to a particular country. We know that companies often seek web hosting that is local to them, so obtaining these IP's is a major plus to our business model."

In addition to the Amsterdam IP's, Got Web Host has also obtained ten more Class C ranges in Vancouver, British Columbia and ten in Miami Beach, FL.

"These acquisitions now allow us to provide IP ranges from all four corners of the North American continent as well as the EU," Brown exclaimed. "We will continue to provide dedicated IP's on all our web hosting plans, whether dedicated or virtual, and we feel this will secure our position as the leader in SEO web hosting."
