

This holiday season
EyeCare America asks Seniors...
“Do you see what I see?”

Unfortunately, for someone suffering from Age-related Macular Degeneration (AMD), the answer is always, “No.”

This holiday season, 7100 ophthalmologists across the U.S. are Giving the Gift of Sight through a national campaign created by EyeCare America called “Do You See What I See?”

The campaign aims to raise awareness about AMD and connect seniors who have not been diagnosed with AMD with a free eye exam.

Call 1-866-324-EYES (3927) to see if you qualify for a free eye exam.

The free eye exams made available through EyeCare America’s AMD EyeCare Program are for people who have NOT been diagnosed with AMD and who:

- are age 65 and older;
- are US citizens or legal residents;
- have not seen an ophthalmologist in three or more years;
- do not belong to an HMO or the VA.
