

Poker Blog Community, Pokerwonks.com, well received by readers and bloggers alike

The poker blogging community has embraced a new home, <http://www.pokerwonks.com>. Launched by Dimat Online, Inc in November 2007, Pokerwonks focuses on poker blogs. By aggregating the feeds from over 100 poker blogs, Pokerwonks has given a functional home to both the poker blogger & poker blog reader.

Any poker blogger can submit their blog to PokerWonks.com, giving the every-day blogger a much wider readership and appeal than as a stand alone blog. The sense of belonging that it has created in this group has been praised by readers and bloggers alike, and is being called “the ultimate poker blog site”. By focusing specifically on poker, bloggers can get their posts out to those who are most interested.

A visitor to PokerWonks.com can scroll through the latest blog posts by category, by date or he can search for specific topics he is interested in. Users can register for free which allows them to save their favorite blogs to the front page by utilizing the proprietary “Wonk It” feature. This feature allows the user to easily track the latest updates from his/her favorite blogs when they login.

Since launching in late November, 2007, Pokerwonks has over 100 poker blogs featured on the site, including blogs from top professional players to the everyday average home game player which have grown in popularity from great content.

“Bullajami”, a seasoned blogger, sports betting expert and poker aficionado, says, “Pokerwonks is a breakthrough for topic bloggers. It has really brought the community together, while cross promoting everyone’s writing. We (bloggers) can read what is happening right now, opinions on it, and write about it ourselves. Best of all, our readers can come to one place to scan their favorite blogs. Pokerwonks.com really is the ultimate poker blog website. I highly encourage any poker blogger or blog reader to visit <http://www.pokerwonks.com> to get more blog exposure.”
