

Hill, Holliday - Overall rating: 3.3 out of 5 stars

"I had two supervisors who were fun to be around when they weren't stressed out of their minds. Let's just say that they were stressed about 85% of the time."

"While it wasn't the dream environment to work in (everything was very rush, rush), let alone the dream internship job, I did learn a lot and got to see how an agency functioned as a whole."

Mullen, MA - Overall rating: 4.4 out of 5 stars

"I absolutely fell in love Mullen. When I first got there my adviser sat me down and asked me what I wanted out of the internship. After that, we spent the next 12 weeks shaping a dream internship."

Arnold Worldwide, MA - Overall rating: 4.3 out of 5 stars

"My biggest gripe is that they promote the internship as a three month job interview. However, they really just put your resume in a file of intern resumes that they cross-check when you apply. After that it seems like you are just like any other applicant applying to them again."

"The best way I can think to describe Arnold is that creatives sit on floors 17-19, planners and executives on 20, and account on 21-22, then these people do not interact unless they're required to."

BBH, NY - Overall rating: 4.6 out of 5 stars

"I spent a good chunk of time researching which was not always the most glamorous job, but it was never meaningless and definitely kept me more productive from day-to-day. For someone like me who's never worked at an advertising agency before, I was able to get a good sense of how all the different departments work with each other and with the client."

TBWA/Chiat/Day, CA – Overall rating: 4.5 out of 5 stars

TBWA/ offered me a unique opportunity to get involved with a Disruption Day. Not too many of these happen, so being involved with it was amazing. My supervisor and the rest of my team allowed me to take full responsibility on several aspects of the day. This gave me a greater sense of what I was capable of as an intern as well as how TBWA encourages teamwork."

Campbell-Ewald, MI – Overall rating: 3.4 out of 5 stars

I worked as an associate AE which involves a lot of routing ads, opening job numbers, creating budgets, shadowing AEs at status meetings, conference calls, etc. The work isn't rocket science, but the routing does allow you to meet people in all different departments.
