

Culture and Language Training for a Multicultural Workplace

Being able to communicate effectively across cultures is a must-have skill in today's multicultural workplace. CAL Learning has helped hundreds of executives, managers and employees to communicate effectively and deal appropriately with colleagues and customers from different backgrounds.

These goals directly relate to bottom line issues such as productivity, motivation, employee retention, and customer satisfaction.

CULTURE TRAINING

Adopt greater flexibility in communicating with members of different cultures to get the results you want.

CAL Learning programs combine practical skills and intercultural theory through interactive training. As a result of training, you can expect to see greater team cohesion and effectiveness, improved customer service, and reduced culture-based conflicts.
