QuickGlimpse Released – Tool Increases Sales for GoldMine Users with Live Accounting Data

Morris Plains, NJ, 4/28/08 -- QuickGlimpse, a set of imbedded functions available for GoldMine, which empowers sales reps to make quick well informed selling decisions, was released by Figtree Consulting, Inc. With a single mouse click, the product provides appropriate data on pending orders and actual sales history for the currently accessed customer in GoldMine. This new feature, implemented in GoldMine and other CRM packages, allows users to work with the latest accounting information when managing activities, developing quotes, and entering orders for their customers.

This functionality provides buttons in GoldMine to review pending orders and sales history from the live AccountMate accounting system while viewing a GoldMine record. This real-time access to business information helps the sales force make quick decisions and increase sales. This add-on tool is available for other CRM packages as well.

The functions were developed by and are available from Figtree Consulting, Inc. The technology used can easily be expanded to make any data from the accounting system visible to CRM users. "We can keep your sales staff in the loop on information related to their customers without giving them direct access to the accounting system," says Figtree Vice President Steve Rosenstein. "This helps keep the accounting system secure and also saves sales staff the problem of working with multiple systems to get the information they need."
