

Above Telecommunications Expands the Reach of Investment Banking Corporate Access

Non-Deal Roadshow Video Communications ServiceSM brings investors and corporate management together in the same room anytime, anywhere

SAN FRANCISCO, CA - June 2, 2008 – Above Telecommunications, Inc., a leading global provider of business to business video communication services, announced today that it will be demonstrating its Non-Deal Roadshow Video Communications ServiceSM at the Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association's Institutional Brokerage Conference at New York City's Grand Hyatt Hotel on June 4th.

AboveTel's Non-Deal Roadshow Video Communications ServiceSM significantly expands the capabilities of investment banking corporate access and institutional sales organizations to facilitate in person meetings between buy-side investors and corporate management teams. Investment banks struggle to accommodate institutional investors' requirement for in person meetings to evaluate senior management. The challenge is that already overextended CEOs are unable to physically meet in person with every qualified analyst and portfolio manager around the globe. Audio calls and webcasts provide basic information, however, they do not come close to providing investors the insights obtained from direct face-to-face interaction.

The AboveTel Non-Deal Roadshow Video Communications ServiceSM leverages the latest high-definition video technology to enable a life-like in person experience where you can see even the most subtle real-time reactions, just like you were in the same room. With AboveTel, you can be telepresent at a moment's notice, giving buy-side analysts and portfolio managers in person access to management anytime, anywhere around the globe without leaving the office. Investors can meet with corporate management teams in London, Hong Kong, and St. Louis all in the same day. AboveTel provides investment banks a powerful productivity tool that satisfies the buy-side's requirement for in person qualification and the time demands of busy CEOs.

AboveTel, who is a sponsor of the SIFMA Institutional Brokerage Conference, will be jointly demonstrating the capabilities of its Non-Deal Roadshow Video Communications ServiceSM with TANDBERG, a leading global provider of HD video conferencing products.

"AboveTel's Non-Deal Roadshow Service is a perfect example of how HD visual communication can bring greater efficiency to the financial industry," said David Luff, Bank and Finance Practice Leader at TANDBERG. "We are excited to join AboveTel at the SIFMA Institutional Brokerage Conference and to work with them to bring this productivity solution to Wall Street."

"High-definition video is a powerful medium that can put you in the same room when travel is not an option," said Mike Borsetti, CEO of AboveTel. "What's been missing in the industry is an easy, scalable, and secure way to enable inter-company video. AboveTel is the next generation video communications service provider delivering secure business to business video calling that's as easy to use as dialing a phone number. "
