Tel Aviv, Israel – June 24th, 2008 – Everybody is an expert on something, whether it's negotiation, poker or dating, people have some sort of wit, wisdom or insight that they can share with the world. QuotesDaddy.com is now offering users the ability to become an author and expert on just about any topic by submitting their own insights, words of Wisdom and Witty Remarks as quotes to the website.

QuotesDaddy.com successfully created the largest online archive of famous quotes, featuring over 1,000,000 quotes from famous individuals throughout history, in May 2008. Now, they are opening up their site to user generated quotes as well. These user quotes are designed to infuse the site with fresh ideas and new content. Site founder, Maya Elhalal, envisioned a site where users would have the opportunity to share their own quotes as well as their favorite famous quotes and now that vision has become a reality.

Members of QuotesDaddy.com are now able to create an 'author page' where they can share their bio, link to their website, blog or social network profiles and share their favorite quotations. This is a great way for users to become experts and recognized individuals in their field of expertise. All users of the website will be able to create favorites lists out of these new user quotes as well. As an author page or a user's quotes gain in popularity by the members of the site, the popular user and quotes will be featured in Quotes Daddy's permanent famous quotes collection, right along with Mark Twain and Albert Einstein.

Membership is free for all who would like to join the site and enjoy the interactive experiences available in sharing, rating and finding quotes. Quotes Daddy also offers customizable quotes widgets that allow users to create favorites lists of all of their favorite quotes and post them on their blogs or websites.
