

Las Vegas Wealth Group Announces Wealth Generation Accredited Investor Affiliate Program

By referring qualified high net worth individuals into the exclusive group, affiliates can earn substantial income just for providing warm introductions to accredited investors they may come in contact with on a daily basis. - Newly Formed Program Provides Ability for Those Hit Hard By Recessionary Times to Rebound and Earn Substantial Income Via Referrals

September 29th, 2008 (Las Vegas): The Las Vegas Wealth Group, Las Vegas' premiere investment showcasing network, announced today the launch of their affiliate partner program, designed to create a mechanism for anyone associated with high net worth individuals to substantially increase their earning power. The Las Vegas Wealth Group provides their members with exposure to investment deals they normally wouldn't find elsewhere, mostly high cash flow passive investments that generally are not correlated to the real estate or stock market fluctuations.

Membership into the group is by invitation only. There are absolutely no membership fees, dues, or any payments required by group members at any time and a Las Vegas residence is not required. With the advent of the group's affiliate program, anyone with access to a database of accredited investors and/or high net worth individuals can refer those people into the network and earn huge paychecks based on whether their referrals act upon the investment deals brought to them via the group.

"The idea behind the program is to create an avenue where each referree eventually generates enough income to partake in the investment deals themselves by continually referring accredited investors they already know and may be looking for the recession-proof investments we bring to our membership", said Vice President of Development Ronald Costa. "The investments themselves generate wealth for the investor and the group generates wealth for the referree at the same time. And in today's hectic economic climate, we're the only game in town." he continued.

Anyone who comes in contact with high net worth individuals, including mortgage brokers, real estate agents, casino hosts, doctors, dentists, etc. are urged to look into this program very seriously. While the whole economy is sitting around waiting for the "recovery", The Las Vegas Wealth Group is providing an avenue right now with this new program where everyday people can supercharge their income by associating themselves with a powerful networking and investment group.
