

Scala Company Overview

Who Are We?

Scala is a leading global provider of digital signage and advertising management solutions. By combining digital and traditional signage systems, Scala has become the world's first connected signage company, offering the leading platform for content creation, management and distribution in digital signage networks, and the first unified platform for advertising management of both traditional and digital signage networks.

Connected signage is a network of displays (digital or traditional) that are centrally managed and addressable for targeted information, merchandising, and advertising. Connected signage networks are comprised of many types of signage including digital signage, billboards, transit signage, street furniture, truckside signage, place-based signage, and more. Advertising management of all of these types of signage is centrally monitored and administrated in a connected signage network. The content distribution and scheduling is also managed centrally in digital signage environments.

Scala pioneered the digital signage industry and today drives over 200,000 screens worldwide; more screens than all competitors combined. Scala solutions are used in retail, education, entertainment, government and other industries for diverse applications such as retail advertising networks, corporate communications (employee TV), traditional and digital billboards, digital menu boards, digital posters, cable TV, hotel lobby signage, gas pump toppers, outdoor advertising, interactive kiosks, etc.
