Summary

Texas Divorce Bootcamp is a unique legal education seminar taught by an experienced divorce attorney, whose sole purpose is to train men about the harsh realities of divorce in Texas. Texas Divorce Bootcamp gives the man anticipating a divorce, or who has just been served with a divorce, neutral and unbiased information without first having to hire an attorney.

Many men start their divorce planning after they've been served with a divorce. The goal of this seminar is to teach men how to plan, how to survive the initial assault of the Temporary Orders hearing, how to devise a divorce strategy and how to win.

Texas Divorce Bootcamp first drills the participant in basic divorce concepts such as community and separate property, property division, child support, custody, visitation, spousal maintenance, Temporary Orders hearings, geographical restriction and how to find the right attorney. After completing this basic training, seminar attendees will learn advanced information discovery techniques and powerful strategies and tactics for use at the Temporary Orders hearing, mediation and if needed - trial.

Texas Divorce Bootcamp gives participants the knowledge, training and confidence needed to make plans prior to the divorce, to handle themselves during the Temporary Orders hearing and how to avoid the mistakes that men commonly make in divorce.

The goal of Texas Divorce Bootcamp is very simple – to help protect the attendees and their assets.

History

Texas Divorce Bootcamp was launched in the fall of 2008 by Alfred N. Kay, Jr., a former divorce attorney with over 27 years of experience in all areas of family law in several counties in Texas. Having handled hundreds of divorce cases throughout his law career, Kay was growing increasingly frustrated by all the mistakes his clients were making, most occurring before the divorce had even been filed. Most of these mistakes were committed by his male clients because of their lack of preparation or planning. That is when Kay decided it was time for Texas Divorce Bootcamp.

Kay received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the prestigious Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island and his law degree from the acclaimed Southern Methodist School of Law in Dallas, Texas. He went into private law practice in Dallas, Texas in 1981. Since that time he has practiced in all areas of civil litigation with a primary emphasis in the areas of family law, bankruptcy and asset planning matters.

Kay maintains his local relationships with the judiciary and fellow attorneys through his memberships and affiliations, which include:

- Supreme Court of Texas
- State Bar of Texas
- United States District Courts
- United States Bankruptcy Courts
- American Arbitration Association
- United States Tax Court
- Austin Bar Association
