

Aberdeen Goes Global

For immediate release: February 3, 2009

Santa Fe Springs, CA USA – Award winning server and storage manufacturer Aberdeen LLC, with a vast and loyal domestic customer base, has made the decision to actively seek to expand its worldwide representation.

To that end, Aberdeen will be exhibiting at the 2009 CeBIT Show which will take place March 3-8 in Hannover, Germany. Recognizing diversities in regional marketplaces, Aberdeen is open to an array of partnership arrangements, including distribution, representation and private label agreements.

According to Aberdeen's President and CEO, Moshe M. Ovadya, "In the United States we have established our name as being a leader in terms of both product offering and reliability. Our server and storage products are installed at most of the largest of organizations in the country. I'm confident our domestic installed base will serve as a strong foundation to build upon as we grow our worldwide presence."

"Our product breadth, performance, reliability, 5-year warranty, VMware certification and aggressive pricing structure represent an excellent opportunity to resellers around the world looking for alternatives to Dell, HP and IBM." Ovadya went on to say, "I look forward to personally meeting with a variety of international players at CeBIT."

Interested parties are invited to contact Aberdeen to either schedule a meeting with Ovadya and his team of sales and technical professionals at CeBIT or to open the line of communication apart from CeBIT.
