Vancouver, BC, Canada (PRWEB) March 12 2009 – aLoveLinksPlus.com, a leader in the online dating industry, is proud to announce recommendations of dating services that have been recently reviewed.

"We have completed reviews and found the following online dating services to meet or exceed our requirements for recommendation" says Robert Lee, editor and owner of aLoveLinksPlus.com.

Smooch.com

Large and Lovely Connections

Robert Lee says "Online dating is really coming into it's own, finally. I am seeing a better format in the new services that are joining the online community as well as established services finding that their directions of service to members are increasing into the mobile platform, into local area search and maintaining a level of features and service that hasn't been available before.

"I expect that, despite the current economy, online dating is growing into the 'first date' scenario with more and more people using online dating to be the introduction medium that is now no longer looked down on, but an accepted part of the first steps of relationship building."

aLoveLinksPlus.com is now 10 years old, having been first registered in 2009, and is continuing the direction of it's owner, Robert Lee, in providing reliable reviews of online dating services and dating advice for singles.
