

PRESS RELEASE FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CMather.com Launches Domain Management with Built-in Domain Name Registration Service

Melbourne, Australia September 08, 2008 - A Melbourne-based web solutions company is putting the internet back into the hands of the user. CMather.com has launched a new management tool that allows its customers to search for and register their own domains, and renew expiring domains through a single system.

Domain registration used to be a difficult and timely process for the end user. CMather.com is one of the few web solution companies that provide multiple solutions, including registration, under the one banner using the single system.

CMather.com group operations manager for Asia Pacific, Chris Mather, said their customers can do their own domain name searches and register available domain names instantly.

"At CMather.com, a customer is king, and we always strive to provide easy management of services," Mr Mather said.

"Using our system a customer can register both global domain names, such as .biz and .info, and country domain names, such as .uk and .au, instantly," he said. "This new registration service is the final step in making CMather.com a comprehensive web solution company."

Mr Mather said CMather.com provides services such as domain registration, website design and development, web hosting and maintenance, search engine optimisation (SEO), and search engine advertising.

By registering their own domains, the users also gets free advanced DNS, URL and email forwarding, with every domain name.

Mr Mather said the launch of CMather.com's domain management system has taken web usability to the next level.

"With its well-designed pages, easy-to-use navigation, and steps-by-step process, the domain management control panel is revolutionary and saves time in managing the multiple services offered by CMather.com," he said. "Once the customer purchases and registers a domain with us, they can use the control panel to register new domains, renew expiring domains, transfer domains to another CMather.com member, and even transfer a domain registered with another registrar to the CMather.com account."
