

Tracey Ingram – Personal Bio

Tracey Ingram graduated from Bradley University with a Bachelors Degree in Speech and Hearing Science. She immediately attended Michigan State University in East Lansing Michigan, and graduated with a Masters degree in Audiology and a minor in Speech Pathology. She has well over a decade of experience in private practice dispensing hearing aids, diagnostic testing, supervising interns, and counseling.

She has also consulted with several area small businesses and Fortune 500 companies regarding their employee’s communication needs. She has been a frequently invited speaker for service clubs, consumer groups, and retirement communities.

Tracey Ingram, M.A., M.S., currently concentrates her efforts as the Director of the Institute of Accent Modification, located in Chicago, Illinois. She is certified by the Institute of Language and Phonology to provide foreign accent modification training utilizing the Compton P-ESL program. Tracey Ingram is nationally certified by the American Speech Language Hearing Association, and is fully accredited and licensed in multiple states. She is also a member of ITBE (Illinois Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages), and ISHA (Illinois Speech and Hearing Association).

When not working, Tracey likes to play tennis, travel, and spend time with close friends and family. She is very active in Step Up Women’s Network, a national non-profit membership organization dedicated to strengthening community resources for women and teenage girls. For more information on how you can get involved locally or nationally, to ensure that women and under-served teenage girls have the tools they need to create a better future, take a look at their website www.suwn.org. Tracey Ingram can be reached at (800) 426-3588 , www.instituteofaccentmodification.com.