The Origins Philosophy

Origins' recovery philosophy embodies a complete return to the historical foundation of the original recovery movement of the 1930's - a spiritual awakening. Our belief is that alcoholics and drug addicts are in the grip of a progressive illness of the mind, body and spirit. Left unarrested, the disease causes destruction in their life and the lives of those around them. There is the obsession of the mind, the allergy of the body and a spiritual discomfort which, when operating in concert, effectively doom the sufferer. The individual is absolutely unable to stop based on desire, necessity or even past or probable consequences. In order to recover, the individual must address his spiritual unrest by developing and experiencing a different way of life. Origins is founded on the central fact that it is possible to experience lasting freedom from the paralyzing disease of alcoholism and/or drug addiction.

The Origins Family - Experience. Perseverance. Passion.

The many men and women who have made the Origins organization their home are highly experienced multi-disciplinary professionals with a variety of impressive credentials and specialties. Degrees alone, however, are not enough to qualify for our team. As importantly, each of our staff shares our vision of a core recovery philosophy – a Spiritual Awakening as the result of the Twelve Steps. From our senior executive group, headquartered in Dallas, Texas, to the facilities support staff at our premier Recovery Centers; we are professionals in agreement about what it takes to recover. We invite you to visit us online and learn more about the broad range of specialties and experiences of our dedicated staff.
