The Feminine Face of Money Presents
Learning to Live Soulfully and Erotically in the Material World

A Money Emotions Seminar for Women Designed by Women

Bainbridge Island WA – February 10, 2010 – The Feminine Face of Money announced that it will offer a three-day seminar at Aldermarsh Retreat Center on Whidbey Island from March 12 to March 14, 2010. Lead by Dianne Juhl, The Feminine Face of Money founder/CEO, with co-facilitators Mara Lindbergh and Deborah Milton, this retreat will offer women a safe and affirming homeplace to clear emotional roadblocks that can hinder a woman's relationship with money. The Feminine Face of Money signature approach - Discover, Dream, Dare-To-Do, and Dialogue – will be used to guide conversation and inspire creative problem-solving.

Hosted at the Aldermarsh Retreat Center on Whidbey Island, the retreat emphasizes renewal and restoring a woman's sense of trust in her own inherent worth via a unique holistic approach - accessed through bodily experience, contemplative practices, dreams, and other creative forms of inner exploration and expression.

Coaching and counseling services will also be available throughout the retreat weekend for guidance, processing one's emotions, and professional referrals. On-site bodywork and gourmet catering will be provided.

"I wholeheartedly endorse Dianne Juhl and The Feminine Face of Money," said Bridget Young, ABR, Windermere real estate professional headquartered in Kitsap County, Washington State. "As a woman realtor working in today's challenging market, I guide clients through one of the biggest financial transactions of their lives. I've witnessed, first hand, the results of Dianne's work. She's passionate about designing creative solutions that empower others to shift emotions about money that interfere in everyday life or at critical moments in the home buying and selling process. The Feminine Face of Money's programs yield real insights, and Dianne helps her clients realize their dreams of home ownership often sooner than they would have imagined."

During the interactive seminar participants will practice and be empowered to:

- commit to choosing new beliefs, consciously,
- create a healthy, relational money dialogue that liberates
- choose external solutions aligned with one's deepest desires and future dream
- be resilient in the face of change and make successful transitions
- live fulfillment and be relaxed with one's success

"Are you tired of masculine ways of relating with money that don't work? Are you ready to use your feminine ways of knowing to receive money more easily in your life? Then this retreat is designed for you," said Dianne Juhl. "The Feminine Face of Money seminar supports women seeking to breakthrough three critical issues areas in their relationship with money. Once resolved, these emotional liabilities convert to valuable assets that benefit women."

Dianne Juhl and The Feminine Face of Money will host a webinar on February 18, 2010 to preview a money topic to be covered at the seminar and answer questions about what women can expect from the retreat. Webinar attendees will receive a free excerpt from Dianne entitled, "Money as a Springboard for Transformation," focusing on emotional dilemmas that can be transformed into actionable skills for personal gain.

Registration for "Learning to Live Soulfully and Erotically in the Material World" is open now. Pricing for both residential retreat and seminar begins at $700. Whidbey Island residents can choose a special pricing offer, and a "Bring A Friend" offer provides a $50 credit for registered attendees who qualify. Course description, registration and pricing information provided at www.femininefaceofmoney.com/retreats2010.html.
