

Living with a brain injury involves daily struggles...
and small victories to celebrate.

March is National Brain Injury Awareness Month.

Traumatic Brain Injuries (TBI) happen to nearly 1.5 million people every year, often changing...and challenging...their lives forever. National Brain Injury Awareness Month recognizes their struggles, and honors even small achievements, as they fight to reclaim their lives and future. It's also the perfect time to say "thank you" to all those who care for those with brain injuries.