HISPANIC EDUCATION SPEAKER

Hispanic Education

Fabian Ramirez is a youth motivational speaker. His message is simple, and to the point, education is crucial for the future of America. His message has challenged many to finish high school and continue on to College. He not only talks about education but he is educated. He has earned a bachelors and a masters degree and will also pursue a PhD in the near future. Fabian's message motivates young people to live a life that is positive and purposeful.

Fabian brings his cultural background into his messages which makes him relational to minority students and his points that much more effective. Fabian lives in Dallas, TX with his wife Andrea who is in her PhD program at Regent University. Fabian's educational journey was a rough and shaping one to say the least but he has learned to be a student and now he teaches others who are in school that they too can be excellent students.

Sow Yourself

Fabian Ramirez likes to talk about the meaning of his name. Fabian means bean grower or grower of beans. He is living out his name by planting seeds of education within students. His tagline is, "Start sowing today so you can reap a harvest tomorrow, in other words sow yourself in areas you want to reap". He challenges students to sow themselves in school work and after school activities. Fabian inspires students to reap a high school diploma by sowing themselves in their work.
