Since 1975 designer Yoon Jung An has been a leading Korean fashion designer for women. Known for romantic elegant styles, Ms. An uses exquisite textiles to create suits and flirty cocktail dresses with feminine shapes and details like flouncy, flared skirts.

The new collection “Green Energy Cool Earth” represents Ms. An’s dream of a better future that coexists with history and nature. Natural materials such as silk, linen and cotton flow in synch perfectly painted by sea-inspired hues of natural green, indigo blue and water white. “We expressed the designs that have the best paradigm through natural dye and the use of environmental fabrics,” says Ms. An. ANS has shown at international fashion shows such as the Osaka Exhibition, Seoul Fashion Week and Paris International Fashion Show. Ms. An is president of the Korean Women Entrepreneurs Association.

On April 24, 2010, An’s collection will be shown at Harvard Eleganza in Boston at Lavietes Pavilion. The Eleganza is an annual event celebrating diversity and the arts, and is one of the most anticipated events of the year on campus, attracting over 1,700 students from all ethnicities and backgrounds at Harvard and other colleges in the Boston area.
