Nick Laudano, Founder, Acente Solutions

Nick is the founder of Acente Solutions and an expert in HR Business Processes and Human Resource Management Systems. Nick began his career as a Senior Technical Recruiter for Paragon Computer Professionals, which gave him a solid foundation in both IT and technical recruiting fields. Using his experience placing individuals in technology environments as a springboard, he began helping clients source new Human Resource consulting projects and developed an expertise in managing outsourcing projects. From there, Nick honed his skills in several start up ventures focused on Employee Life Cycle Management at the enterprise level. He designed Human Resource Management solutions that managed employee data from inception to retirement, for organizations with over 10,000 employees.

Nick launched Acente Solutions in 2002. Ever since, Nick has been focused on helping small and mid-sized firms automate and optimize the management of their valuable human capital. At Acente Solutions, Nick dedicates himself to finding unique customized solutions for each client. Along with his long-time partners, he works as a trusted advisor to streamline and optimize their current business processes while implementing best-in-breed HRMS software to complete the solution.

Nick has an International Business and Marketing Bachelors degree from the George Washington University and lives in Chester, NJ with his wife and two children.
