

SIGNiX Partners with Arius OpenAdvantage® Enabling End-to-End Digital Account Opening for Financial Services Firms

Users can rapidly and securely complete financial documents digitally with real-time visibility into the digital signing process and can access signed documents residing within OpenAdvantage® anytime.

WATERLOO, ON AND CHATTANOOGA, TN - June 10, 2010 – Arius Software, a leading provider of automated account opening and document management solutions for financial services firms and SIGNiX, a leading provider of on-demand digital signature solutions jointly announced a technology partnership to integrate SIGNiX SIGNOLOGY service within OpenAdvantage®, an automated account opening platform to provide end-to-end digital account opening for the financial services industry.

The first phase of the integrated product is available now, allowing financial services firms using Arius' OpenAdvantage® to provide SIGNiX Digital Signature service available to their financial professionals. Further integrations are planned along with a joint co-marketing effort to educate the market on these new online signatures services and to expand the usage to other participants in the account opening process.

With Arius OpenAdvantage® and SIGNiX SIGNOLOGY, users will have the ability to:

- Eliminate the need to obtain an ink signature from the client
- Perform end-to-end digital account opening, eliminating the need for paper-based forms
- Complete real-time, same-day account opens
- Reduce costs associated with opening a new client account by 60%
- Increase visibility at any stage of the account opening process.

Provide exceptional customer experience during the account opening process “We are pleased to partner with SIGNiX to deliver a comprehensive solution to our network of financial services professionals,” said Adam Zimmer, President and CEO of Arius Software. “Interest in taking advantage of digital signature technology in this industry has gained momentum. Advisors now have access to a comprehensive solution which will give them a competitive edge in this increasingly competitive industry by increasing operational efficiency, improving client services and reducing costs by providing a superior, personalized account opening experience.”

“Arius helps financial services professionals facilitate financial transactions faster and easier, with confidence and without paper,” said Jay Jumper, president and CEO of SIGNiX, Inc. “SIGNiX SIGNOLOGY service is the perfect complement to OpenAdvantage®. Arius customers will be able to leverage SIGNiX to complete transactions electronically with a secure, safe and easy solution all from within the OpenAdvantage® application and continue to achieve greater in-roads in going green.”

About SIGNiX

SIGNiX, headquartered in Chattanooga, TN, offers a patented electronic signature solution that enables individuals to “sign” documents via the Internet, over the phone or face to face, helping to increase speed, accuracy and security over traditional, paper and ink-based signature processes. Users become “known customers” through a web or call center session so that documents requiring a signature can be legally executed online without the costs or delays of paper processing. SIGNiX’s highly secure digital service, which requires no hardware installations or software downloads, enables companies to quickly obtain the necessary signatures to execute new contracts or authorize transactions – ultimately helping to turn more verbal commitments into legally-executed, revenue generating relationships. Visit www.signix.com or call 423-298-4438 for more information.
