

Industry Veteran Sean Kiley Joins Capital Legal Solutions, Enhancing Leadership Team to Address Growth Demand

Falls Church, VA (June 16, 2010) Capital Legal Solutions (CLS), a leading services and technology solutions provider in the E-Discovery, Forensics and Trial Support market today announced the appointment of an industry veteran to their core management team. Former Merrill Corporation executive Sean Kiley joins CLS as Business Development Director to assist in accelerating the company's impressive growth and to enhance CLS's leadership position in delivering end-to-end e-discovery and trial support services to the market. Sean's appointment brings a wealth of over 20 years of experience to the CLS management team, and he will play a key leadership role in developing and managing new client relationships across all CLS product and service lines.

"Sean joins us at a time of unprecedented growth in CLS's history," said Dharmesh Shingala, President and CTO of Capital Legal Solutions. "We have expanded our offices in Europe, Asia and the United States; and significantly expanded our service offerings by launching CLS Trial Consulting. The rapid acceptance of our review tool eZReview, coupled with the launch of a number of new CLS products, has created increased demand from our clients around the world. Sean will play a significant role in maintaining CLS's leadership position in the marketplace by managing relationships with clients who benefit from our end-to-end service and product offerings."

Sean's extensive career allows him to identify client's needs and provide solutions across the entire litigation cycle. Sean has most recently served as Vice President of Sales for Merrill Corporation, playing a vital role in managing sales teams and improving business operations. Sean has also served as Regional Vice President of Complex Litigation Support, LLC and as Managing Partner of Document Technologies, Inc.
