

June 21, 2010

A Newsletter Is Revived, This Time as an E-Zine

By FLORENCE FABRICANT

David Rosengarten has started publishing his highly detailed, thoroughly researched food newsletter again after a two-year hiatus. The Rosengarten Report is now a monthly, available only online as an e-zine.

The first issue, dated June, was published in mid-May; it surveys, in depth, fresh, new-harvest olive oils from around the world.

The July issue, published on June 15, features Mr. Rosengarten's 32-page doctoral thesis on authentic Spanish paella, its history, how it has evolved and how it is made, where to find it in restaurants, and how to select a proper pan for making it at home. There are color illustrations and four recipes.

The Rosengarten Report, is $59.95 a year, from rosengartenreport.com. A subscription starts with the most recent issue; you can back-order an earlier issue, whose price will be included in the year's subscription, which consists of 12 issues.