

Advanced Polymer Trading Announce the Successes of IranPlast 2010 International Exhibition

APT participated in the 7th IranPlast, the international trade fair for plastic and rubber, which was held in Tehran from 23rd of June 2010 and announces its successes.

Advanced Polymer Trading, an international trading company specialising in the world wide trade of rubber and plastic, is pleased to announce a very successful time at IranPlast 2010 which included many productive meetings with potential clients from all over the world.

IranPlast, which is organized by the National Petrochemical Co. (NPC) in cooperation with the Iran International Exhibitions Co. (I.I.E.C), is one of the top plastic and rubber exhibitions in the Middle East. The 7th IranPlast included exhibitors from over 680 companies including over 250 international exhibitors.

During the event, APT was able to establish contact with many international representatives. The event also saw visitors to the APT stand from Japan, Singapore, India, Italy, UAE, Syria, Turkey, KSA and Pakistan. 40% of these visitors were looking for materials for the automotive industry and 30% for packaging.

“We are very pleased to have participated in IranPlast 2010” said Mr. Hamid Amiri, APT's Managing Director. “And we are especially pleased with the international perspective of the exhibition and all our productive talks.”

The Middle East is a key market for APT where it has a significant market share in several of the Gulf states including the UAE, Qatar, Bahrain and Iran. As a specialist in rubber, rubber chemicals and plastic, APT offer world class pre-sales and post-sales technical support and pride themselves in their knowledge and expertise as well as their high level of customer satisfaction.
