

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Willis Group Announces Formation of Imaging, Content Management and Document Management Subsidiary, Image EngineHouston, TX – October 15, 2010

Willis Group announced today that it has formed a subsidiary, Image Engine, to address the growing need in the marketplace for document imaging and information management solutions. The subsidiary was formed in response to the explosive growth in demand for records conversion and management driven by emerging technology, regulatory mandates and incentives as well as evolving best practices across a wide range of industries. Image Engine will offer a suite of consulting services and point solutions aimed at helping enterprises achieve efficiencies, compliance, risk mitigation and information accessibility and security.

Founded in 1977, the Willis Group has attracted a team of seasoned professionals with in-depth knowledge of key vertical markets and the solutions they need to manage their information, improve their efficiency and manage their costs. Mark Willis, Willis Group President and CEO, is a firm believer in the value that these solutions represent for clients in information intensive industries. “We get truly excited about bringing offerings to market which make a real difference for the organizations and, ultimately, the individuals we serve. This is one of those opportunities. Many of the organizations for which these solutions are so attractive also have large consumer client bases and constituencies. So, the positive impacts are felt well downstream.”

Mr. Willis went on to say that “The time has arrived where demonstrable ROI and affordability have intersected to create a compelling business case for these solutions. The emergence of these cost effective options represents a distinct opportunity for organizations in numerous industries to further optimize performance and security around their critical information and intellectual capital. Digitization of historical data will also open up significant revenue streams that were previously unavailable due to limited accessibility and manually intensive research and retrieval processes.”

About Willis Group

The Willis Group comprises a suite of service companies whose common cultural asset is an overriding focus on service excellence and value. Our mission is the establishment and growth of companies whose products and services create opportunity at the organizational and individual level for our clients and our companies alike. The Willis Group provides document and information management solutions through Image Engine and a range of staffing and recruitment services through four specialized brands: Donovan & Watkins (Administrative/Clerical, Legal, Finance/Accounting), Enstream Global (Engineering & Technical Staffing), Facilitek Services (Information Technology), and Seis Strat (Engineering & Geosciences Consulting).

About Image Engine

Image Engine helps clients simplify information management through the integration of multiple segments of content management, document management, web content management, records management and project management into a true enterprise-wide solution for your company.

Press Contact:

Adam Gould
Vice President – Marketing
713.547-4507
agould@willisgroupus.com

###