

WHO WE ARE

Zoliath.com is a website that is designed to help owners and tenants find and evaluate commercial real estate service providers in one of our thirteen industry categories, at one web location. Think of us as the “Orbitz®” or “Expedia®” of the commercial real estate industry. You may not realize it, but more than 100,000 searches are performed monthly on Google® alone, by people seeking commercial real estate professionals.

WHAT WE DO

Zoliath.com “mines” the major search engines with well placed, industry specific advertisements and organic search results placements in order to deliver your potential client to our website. Zoliath® is set up to allow your potential client to search for profiled companies/professionals at a city or regional level.

Essentially, the website user can filter their search to show only those companies/professionals that closely match their requirement in each of the thirteen categories. This includes ways to filter down to the exact specialty of each company/professional. Once their search is complete, your potential client can click on the name of any listed company or professional to review a detailed profile, including (for Premium members) links to your website, affiliated companies or organizations and virtually any information that may set one company apart from another. All contact information for each company/professional is on the profile, allowing the website user unfettered access to contact you directly, at their leisure.

WHAT WE ARE NOT

Zoliath.com is not a commercial multiple listing service (MLS), and we do not place advertised properties for lease or sale on our website. We are not your typical directory either. In order to be listed on Zoliath, you must first go through a pre-screening process to ensure that you are an industry specialist within your chosen category. Our website users have come to rely on our claim that only true specialists reside on Zoliath.
