

LIBERTY MUTUAL PRESENTS Celebrity Responsibility Short Films

Liberty Mutual's Responsibility Project, which encourages people to "do the right thing" has partnered with celebrities, Felicity Huffman and Danny Glover, to produce two short films that shed light on the topic of responsibility.

Felicity Huffman is the writer, director and star of "Lesster," the newest short film from The Responsibility Project. In the film, Huffman is a busy mom trying to teach her son the value of taking an environmental stand while she and her husband are ironically unaware of their own impacts.

Danny Glover directs and stars in "Second Line," where Glover portrays a wealthy and frustrated businessman who is forced to walk to work after car troubles. The man, who is too busy and self-consumed to notice others, rushes through the streets of San Francisco – finally realizing all he's missed.
