Whats the Problem?

Traditional project management software has been focused on charts, graphs, and stats. And what have we learned? These methods don't do anything to help improve project outcomes. Businesses have relied on email and other outdated tools to manage the lifeline of every business; your projects. In today's global market, with stakeholders in different offices, cities or countries, real-time communication and collaboration is required to improve project success.

How do we solve it?

Enter MangoProjects - the natural evolution of these communication methods designed to improve how project teams engage. The current tools used to accomplish daily tasks simply don't cut it in this age of open and immediate communication needs. More than a tool, MangoProjects is a new way to engage all project stakeholders, creating true collaboration that results in an informed, productive and successful project team.

Project Execution

Easy to Get Started
It takes seconds to create a private, or public project. You can quickly invite key stakeholders from inside or outside the organization and kick off your project.

Documents
All your important files can be added to your projects and shared with team members so they can review and comment. Folders and tagging make documents easy to discover when you need them.

Tasks
Core to any project are the tasks necessary to accomplish your objectiveds. Easily import your critical tasks into the project, assign them to team members, and have complete visibility on task status.

Access Anywhere
Get access to projects and tasks when and how you want. Use the web browser, iPad, iPhone, Android or Blackberry to view and share with your project team.

Project Collaboration

Real-Time Communication
Use microblogging to instantly share project or task status updates that help inform everyone on the team. Engage team members with private instant messages, group chats or click to call and click to Skype.

Full Integration
Integrate MangoProjects with your own workflow tools or line of business applications using open APIs. Email integration allows for content shared outside of MangoApps to be easily added to MangoProjects and visible to the project team.
