

Bond International Software Releases VCG Pointwing XML Share Functionality Enabling Recruiting and Staffing Firms to Use Intuit QuickBooks for Payroll and Billing

Bond VCG Pointwing recruiting software employs HR-XML standards to automatically push relevant data to Intuit® QuickBooks® for contingent employee payroll processing and customer billing, thus streamlining accounting workflow and reducing data entry errors.

Atlanta, GA, December 3, 2010. Bond International Software announced today the new functionality that will be available in its latest version of Bond VCG Pointwing 3.0.

Recruiting and staffing firms seeking an effective accounting solution for handling their contingent employee payroll and client billing often turn to Intuit's QuickBooks, a leading bookkeeping and accounting software package. The biggest challenge then becomes moving relevant data from their recruiting and staffing software – the revenue-producing side of their front office operations – to their back office accounting operations. The newest release of Bond VCG Pointwing recruiting software solves that problem easily with its Pointwing XML Share functionality.

Pointwing XML Share can automatically push all pertinent customer account, contingent employee and job assignment data from the Pointwing recruiting software database to Intuit QuickBooks. As a result, recruiting and staffing firms will benefit by:

- Speedily paying their contingent or contract employees and billing their customers for services through QuickBooks
- Reducing interruptions to their front office recruiting and staffing workflow by automating data transfer from Pointwing to QuickBooks
- Eliminating time-consuming double data entry of employee, account and assignment data, which also reduces errors

Pointwing XML Share offers staffing and recruiting firms a solid foundation for future integrations to other applications as it is based on Extensible Markup Language \(XML\), the universal format for structured documents and data. All data is sent from Pointwing based on HR-XML standards for human resources-related data interchange, a sub-set of XML. Thus, Pointwing assures interoperability standards between its Microsoft SQL-based database and QuickBooks or any other XML-standards-based software package.

Steve Taylor, President and CEO of Bond VCG, said “The nature of recruiting and staffing requires collaboration between individuals to achieve worthwhile results. Likewise, collaboration between software applications – that is, integrations – enables users and recruiting and staffing companies to work more efficiently. By using well-established

XML and HR-XML standards as the foundation for our Pointwing XML Share we assure our customers that this first integration to Intuit's QuickBooks, as well as future integrations, will be just as solidly useful to their success."
