

Theo Wanne's new PERFORMANCE LINE makes his revolutionary True Large chamber mouthpieces available at an easier price.

January 8, 2011

Theo Wanne's Performance Line has stretched the limits of mouthpiece manufacturing to make his True Large chamber mouthpieces financially viable for most musicians: student, hobbyist, and pro alike.

Theo Wanne, eminent world expert on saxophone mouthpieces, is legendary for making mouthpieces that play better, express better and sound better because of their revolutionary True Large chambers combined with the world's most advanced CNC sculpted interiors.

Theo has taken the high baffle mouthpiece to a whole new level with the DATTA Performance Line. The design is based off Theo's now classic pro-line DURGA mouthpiece, but with an emphasis on a thick core sound. It has a huge, modern, projecting sound.

Theo has combined a robust vintage Otto Link sound with an improved design to increase projection and flexibility with the BRAHMA Performance Line.

The DATTA and BRAHMA are available in hard rubber and metal models; all at a price now almost everyone can afford.
