

Precise, Inc. Announces the Next Evolution in eDiscovery with the Unveiling of the eDiscovery Box™

Precise's innovative eDiscovery Box is a revolutionary offering designed to change the industry's standards for approaching eDiscovery.

PITTSBURGH, PA – January 25, 2011 – Precise, Inc. (www.precise-law.com), a trusted provider of eDiscovery solutions and trial support services, today announced the launch of the eDiscovery Box™, a portable processing system that represents a revolutionary advancement in the industry's status quo. In collaboration with Digital Reef®, Precise's eDiscovery Box transforms the nature of how eDiscovery services are sought out, purchased, and delivered to the legal community by extending the geographic reach of Precise's data center. The eDiscovery Box incorporates streamlined logistics with reasonable contracts and fixed-fee pricing as a means to deliver Precise's entire suite of eDiscovery services, at low flat rates. The range of available services includes everything from data collection and processing through document review and production.

All of these services are included with the standard eDiscovery Box, or clients have flexibility to select the exact services they need in order to address specific project requirements. Wherever the end-client may be located, the eDiscovery Box provides all of the tools needed to safely collect, process, review, and produce data domestically or abroad – with particular capabilities to support foreign data processing and meet complicated “cross-border” challenges often found in the wake of large or multinational discovery requests.

Precise's eDiscovery Box comes equipped with extraordinary processing strength, capable of indexing 500 GB of data per day, and each project is billed at a low flat rate, regardless of the volume of data processed. Additionally, the eDiscovery Box's full range of data analytics, email threading, document profiling, foreign language support, families support, and alpha/numeric pattern identification features were developed to handle any variety of complex data types often found in today's modern corporation.

Compared to traditional services conducted off-site, eDiscovery Box services are typically completed in about half the time. The dramatically shorter timeframes are enabled by the remarkably high processing throughput. Precise's tailored contracts and streamlined operations allow for improved cost-control, which lets legal teams achieve budget accuracy by roughly 90% in most cases. Unlike other models, eDiscovery Box's pricing is delivered at fixed-fee rates, which typically results in approximately 50-60% savings over conventional services.

Precise's CEO, Peter Mansmann, Esq., states, "Simply put, the eDiscovery Box is a global extension of Precise's data center. Through fair business practices, affordable pricing, and sensible contracts, we're paving the way for higher standards in eDiscovery."

First to market with this offering, Precise will unveil the eDiscovery Box at the upcoming LegalTech® New York 2011 trade show. To learn more about the eDiscovery Box, trade show registrants are encouraged to attend the Emerging Technology panel discussion presented by Precise and Digital Reef, "Discovery in the EU: Easing the Pain of Processing Data Across Borders," scheduled for January 31, 2011, at 10:30am (EST). Attendees may also visit Precise's exhibit area at LegalTech, booth 2615, for detailed information about this innovative service, in addition to the firm's existing array of sophisticated eDiscovery and trial support services.
