Interns need to be highly motivated and passionate about digital and interactive media, as well as working with a news company. You need cross-cultural awareness, you need to be hungry to both learn and contribute. And to be a great learner – you need to be a great listener.

You need experience or a degree in digital media/computer science/design etc with mobile, web or social media expertise and to be ready to apply yourself to contributing in either: Development & Design; R&D, Research and Reporting; Future Mapping or Creative Ideas.

If you need to ask what any of these terms mean – it probably means you're not ready to apply for the internship.
